C. of C. To Meet At Yacht Harbor On Next Monday

Regular Luncheon Meeting Will Furnish Opportunity For Viewing Harbor

The chamber of commerce will hold its next members' luncheon at the Redwood City Yacht Club house on Monday. Many local people, it is felt, have not yet visited the yacht harbor and the luncheon Monday will afford the chamber of commerce members and others who desire to attend this opportunity.

Following the luncheon there will be an inspection of the club and grounds, as well as the proposed site of the city's commercial harbor. Dr. Francis J. Gruss, president of the Yacht Club, will give a five minute talk at the luncheon on the subject of the yacht harbor, and Mayor Daniel R. Stafford will speak concerning the commercial aspect of the harbor. Ten minutes will be devoted to open forum discussion on any other civic topic.

The ladies of the Methodist-Episcopal church will have charge of the luncheon.

The luncheon committee of the chamber consists of L. C. Brown, George Moore and Mr. Doxsee.

S. S. F. Bandit Robs Grocery

A lone bandit staged a daylight holdup of a South San Francisco grocery store Wednesday, and secured $63 from Mrs. Rose Angelia, the clerk, who was alone in the store atthe time.

Mrs. Angelia told South San Francisco police that a man about 30 years old, dressed in a brown suit and a brown hat with a red necktie and a green overcoat entered the store and asked for a pack of cigarettes. Just as he asked for them, someone else entered the store and he took th cigarettes and left. A short time later he returned and asked for a bar of soap. As she turned to get the soap, she says, he ordered her to put her hands up. She did not see a gun, but stated that he was holding on object in his coat pocket which had the appearance of a pistol.

After taking the money from the till, the bandit left ordering the woman not to call for help until he was out of sight.

Where Is Picture Of Late Jas. Peace?

Up until the time the old courthouse building was wrecked to make way for the new structure in 1904 a portrait of James Peace, the first settler of San Mateo county, hung on the walls at the entrance of the building. It was bought and put there by popular subscription and was the admiration of all those having business in the building for many years. How it disappeared and where it went to no one seems to know. Evidently it is hidden away in some cellar, the owner unaware of its historic value. If it could be resurrected from its place of obscruty and brought to light no doubt the board of supervisors would pay a nominal sum for the picture to be again placed in its old position in the courthouse.

So far as known, James Peace was the first foreign born settler to come to San Mateo county. The exact time of his arrival is not known, although he claimed to have deserted the vessel upon which he was a sailor in San Francisco harbor in 1818. About 1832 he married Gaudalupe Valencia, a native of California, and of their children only two grew to manhood, Antone, who until recently lived in Redwood City and Frank, who resided in San Mateo until his death, and where his children and grandchildren are still residents.

In 1835, with a number of others, he was taken prisoner by the Mexican authorities and was taken to San Blas and later to Tepec, where they were tried for plotting against the government. There was not sufficient evidence to hold Peace, so he was released and after a time worked his way back to San Mateo county and his family.

In the late seventies he left his home in Pilarcitos Canyon and moved to Redwood City, where he resided with his son Antone until his death. At a very great age he was a hale and hearty old fellow. He wore a sandy chin whisker and talked with a decided burr in his throat. At his death he was given honorary burial by San Mateo county in Union Cemetery, Redwood City, because of the fact that he was the first white resident of the county.

Inquests Held For Victims of Slide

An inquest was held Tuesday by Coroner J. C. McGovern into the death of Mrs. Angela Barth and Henry Morgan, who were killed Sunday when a cliff at Lobitos Glen softened by the rain, toppled down upon them while they were picnicking on the beach below. The inquest was held at Halfmoon Bay, and returned a verdict of accidental death in both cases.

Mrs. Barth's sister, Miss Mildred Rice, also caught by the falling cliff, is still in a serious condition at the Mills Memorial hospital in San Mateo as the result of internal injuries received when the rocks and earth piled upon her. Mrs. Barth's husband and two children narrowly missed being caught in the same slide.

Funeral services were held for Mrs. Barth in Burlingame, and the body of Morgan was sent to Sacramento for interment. He is survived by his widow, to whom he had been married less than a year. Morgan was a graduate of Stanford, and come to the peninsula to witness the Stanford-Dartmouth game. He has visited in Burlingame with his friends, the Barths, and had accompanied them on the picnic at Lobitos.

Riccis Awarded Custody of Boys

Young Musicians Again Given To Parents by Action Of N. Y. Court

The legal tangle which has involved the guardianship of two San Bruno boys Ruggiero and Giorgio Ricco, 10 and 8 years old respectively, took another turn this week when they were allowed to return to their parents, who are now in New York.

The two boys, said to be musical prodigies, left the apartment of the music teacher, Miss Elizabeth Lackey, to whom custody of the two children had been granted, while the later was away. Thinking that the boys had been kidnapped, Miss Lackey called upon the police, but when the boys were found to have gone voluntarily to the apartment which their parents are occupying in New York the police refused to act and the case was referred to the courts.

Permanent custody of the young musicians was granted to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Ricci, in New York Tuesday by Justice Louis A. Valente.

At the same time Justice Valente dismissed a guardianship application of Miss Elizabeth Lackey of Berkeley, who has directed the musical education of the youngsters for the last three years. The Ricci family home is in San Bruno.

The court battle over the Ricci boys, Ruggiero, 10 and Giorgio, 8, started immediately after Ruggiero startled the musical world with his playing three years ago. The boys had been given into Miss Lackey's custody by the parents. She claimed legal guardianship over them. The parents contested on the grounds they had not fully understood the agreement.

Since then the case has been fought bitterly, both in California and New York courts, with Miss Lackey apparently holding the upper hand.

Miss Lackey has not yet announced whether or not she will appeal the action of the New York court in granting the custody of the boys.

Superior Judge Lincoln S. Church of Oakland had previously upheld Miss Lackey's claim to the boys. The case in New York hinged upon the alleged exploitation of the young artists by Miss Lackey to the detriment of their health. Ruggiero scored another concert triumph in Carnegie Hall, New York, last Sunday. Miss Lackey recently signed a contract for ten concerts by Ruggiero at $2500 a concert. The parents charged it was "pure commercialism" on her part.

DIVORCE GRANTED HERE

A divorce was granted by Judge George H. Buck this week to Mrs. Palma Moreno from Tony Moreno, of this city. The divorce was granted on grounds of cruelty on the part of Moreno. Mrs. Moreno was granted a share of the community property and a monthly allowance.

Merchants' Xmas Festival Proves Unusual Success

Thousands Enjoy Christmas Tree and Decorations; Prizes Awarded

Redwood City turned out by the thousands Wednesday night for its annual Community Christmas party carried out this year under the auspices of the Redwood City Retailers. Beautiful weather, typical of the peninsula during the early December, brought everybody down town where the stores and shops had been beautifully and artistically decorated for the occasion.

Santa Claus made his arrival promptly at 7:30 in his lighted airplane, landing at the Redwood City Aviation Field and from there was taken on an automobile tour by the committee through the shopping district. At 8 o'clock Santa made his appearance in front of the court house on Broadway, where from underneath a huge Christmas tree erected some ten days ago, he took charge of the distribution of candy to the several thousand little boys and girls who had gathered there eagerly awaiting his arrival. Santa was welcomed by Mayor D. R. Stafford and K. B. Towne, chairman of the committee.

Following the Christmas tree ceremony and the departure of Santa Claus, the stores and shops held open house for several hours. Most of the merchants had decorated their places of business for the occasion, and prizes were awarded for the best interior decorations and the best window displays. First place for the window display was awarded by the judges to Horace B. Gardiner's on Broadway, with the award for the best interior decoration going to the Bank of America for the second consecutive time and giving that institution permanent possession of the trophy.

Honorable mention in the contest were given M. E. Ryan's Electrical Shop, Bob Murphy's, Reinhard & Co., B. P. Arata, Ltd., Clemens, Hull Bros., Inc., Milton R. Hinds, Hearne's and Montgomery Ward & Co.

The Retailers' committee in charge of the celebration consisted of Kendall B. Towne, chairman; James P. Hearne, Bob Murphy, Clarence Choate, Milton Hinds, Harry Gelbman, Walter Hilton, George McQueen, Mark E. Ryan and Al Davies.

Thief Stabs Man in Chest With Scissors

Interrupted in Apartment Robber Makes Attack Upon Intruder

F. J. Smith, 27, a resident of the Capuchino Apartments in San Bruno, is recovering today from a dangerous wound which he received when he surprised a burglar in the apartment office.

Smith told the San Bruno police that he heard a noise in the office, which he knew to contain two safes. As he entered the door a man sprung at him and stabed him in the breast. Smith was able to reach a phone and summoned the police before he fell unconscious. The wound was made by a pair of scissors which the robber had picked up in the apartment when he heard Smith approaching. The wound was stated by physicians not to be critical, although the scissors narrowly missed hitting the heart.

The thief escaped before the police arrived.

MEETING HELD BY MAYORS AND COUNTY SUPERVISORS TO AID IN UNEMPLOYMENT

County Chamber of Commerce Designated as Headquarters For Assisting in Securing Employment; City Chambers Of Commerce To Serve Their Communities

At a meeting held in the court house Wednesday of the county board of supervisors and the mayors' committee of the eleven peninsula cities, definite steps were taken to bring about immediate relief for the unemployed of San Mateo county. Mayor Matt A. Harris of Atherton presided at the meeting.

Relief was mapped along two lines:

1. A campaign to stimulate interest on the part of the people of the realization of their responsibility of creating whatever work they have, even if only of a temporary nature, for those in distress.

2. A county survey of unemployment to determine the actual number and types of men out of work, and then proceed with projects which will prevent suffering during the winter months.

The county chamber of commerce, with office in the court house in Redwood City, will act as a central organization, with the chambers of commerce of the various cities of the county acting as bureaus, at which the unemployed will register and jobs created by county residents listed. Roscoe Wyatt, secretary-manager of the county chamber, was named secretary of the supervisors and mayors' relief committee.

Wyatt was authorized to have cards printed and supplied all the chambers of commerce for registering the unemployed and listing jobs available. The card system is now being used in San Francisco and Palo Alto with considerable success. All the newspapers of the county are being asked to co-operate by carrying the card in printed form.

The supervisors appropriated $500 for carrying on the campaign. It was paticularly emphasized at the meeting of the committee Wednesday that work will be provided only boni fide residents of the county. Mayor Harris, however, said that some thought should be given to creating another agency to cope with the possibility of a crime wave resulting from the influx of itinerants and drifters during the winter months.

It was the consensus of opinion of those at the meeting that the unemployment situation is not as acute in San Mateo county as in other parts of the state and country.

Supervisor Brown of San Mateo suggested that part of the money budgeted for fire fighting next year, be used at this time in hiring men to build fire trails. County Fire Warden Bert L. Werder was directed to submit a report to the supervisors next Monday as to where this work could best be done at this season of the year and the approximate cost.

Mayor Daniel R. Stafford reported that the Redwood City Kiwanis club had appointed a committee on unemployment to co-operate with the chamber of commerce in registering the men out of work and the available jobs. On motion of Mayor Stafford, seconded by Supervisor Thomas L. Hickey of South San Francisco, the committee directed that a telegram be sent President Hoover commending him on his message to Congress urging immediate appropriations for the commencement of public work throughout the nation to relieve the unemployed during the winter.

Telegrams were also directed to be sent United States Senators Hiram M. Johnson and Samuel M. Shortridge and Congressman Arthur M. Free, urging them to do all in their power to carry out the program suggested in the President's message.

To Meet Again Wednesday

The committee will meet again next Wednesday morning at which time it is expected a report will be available relative to the number of men out of employment in the county. Further definite action toward the launching of county and municipal projects will be discussed at this meeting.

Mrs. Ellen Biber, executive secretary of the Social Service Commission, was present at the meeting Wednesday and pledged the full co-operation of her organization in the relief plans.

Those attending the meeting were the five members of the board of supervisors, Dr. C. V. Thompson, chairman; T. L. Hickey, Mrs. Rosalie M. Brown, John W. Poole and Manuel Francis; Mayors Matt A. Harris, of Atherton; Daniel R. Stafford of Redwood City; W. H. Braden of Menlo Park; Chris Jordan of Belmont; C. A. Buck of Burlingame; and J. P. Quinlan of South San Francisco; and Earl P. Wilsey, city manager of San Mateo, representing Mayor William H. Taylor of that city.

Chorus of Boys Organized Here

A splendid showing was made at the second meeting of the Redwood City Boys' Chorus on Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist church. Thirteen new members applied for places bringing the total number who have enrolled up to twenty-seven. Christmas carols were practiced under the direction of the leader, Herman Philips. Roy A. Hohberger, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. who is promoting this organization, talked to the boys on the aims of the club and the opportunity for giving community service in addition to giving them as individuals a very splendid musical training.

Membership in this club will be open for a short time to all boys of Redwood City and the vicinity between the ages of 8 and 13 years whose voices have not changed. A special effort is being made to bring the total number up to between 40 and 50. After this is accomplished, boys desiring membership will be placed on a waiting list after they have been found qualified. Further information can be secured by calling Redwood 974.

Fire in Car; Gas on Street Auto All Gone

When your car catches on fire, cautions the fire department, do not get out and let the gasoline out of the tank. It's a poor plan. Shortly after 12 o'clock on Wednesday the fire department was called to the intersection of Hazel and Madrone streets. Here, it was found, the cause of the alarm was a burning car.

The boy who had been driving the car said that he noticed that the car was on fire, so he stopped and let the gasoline out of the tank. The fuel, of course, formed a pool beneath the car and when the department arrived on the scene little was left to do but gather together the old iron and clear the street.

Death of Doctor In Wreck of Car Called 'Murder'

Declare Physician's Car Was Forced Off Bayshore Road By Angry Driver

Police of the Peninsula have been aroused over what now appears to have been the deliberate wrecking of a machine on the bayshore road with the consequent death of the driver and the serious injury of a passenger.

The car was that of Dr. Lincoln Kallen, San Francisco X-Ray specialist whose car was thought to have been accidentally wrecked when it went over the bank on the Bayshore road last Saturday, crushing Dr. Kallen beneath the machine and injuring his passenger, Mrs. George Douglas, wife of a Los Angeles newspaper man.

With the recovery of consciousness, however, of Mrs. Douglas, she has told how Dr. Kallen's car was forced over the side of the road.

She and Dr. Kallen, she said were hurrying to the city, anxious to close a real estate deal in which the doctor was helping Mrs. Douglas. Dr. Kallen was traveling between forty and forty-five miles an hour when he overtook two trucks, one a Gilmore oil truck, was in the act of passing the other and occupied the inner lane.

Dr. Kallen, said Mrs. Douglas dropped his speed and pulled in behind the Gilmore truck. Meanwhile another car came up behind his and began tooting his horn for the right of way.

Mrs. Douglas said she and Dr. Kallen remarked on the nervousness of the man behind them and wondered why, if he were so anxious to proceed, he did not go over into the two lanes reserved for south bound traffic.

The second car however, stayed behind the Kallen car until the one truck had pulled off to the right Dr. Kallen then speeded his car up to forty-five miles an hour and swung over to the right to allow the man behind him to proceed.

Shook Fist

Instead, said Mrs. Douglas, he pulled his car alongside the Kallen car, shook his fist at Mrs. Douglas and Kallen, and swore at them. Mrs. Douglas said he kept his car paralled to theirs and slowly pushed them off the road as he swore and shook his fist. Finally, she said when the right wheels of the Kallen car were off the pavement, the other car swung in close, sideswiping Kallen car on the front fender.

The driver of the oil truck substantiated the story of Mrs. Douglas, and stated that the driver of the other car stopped and after looking at the wrecked car, drove away. A discription of the car, the driver and a part of the license number was secured. With these facts, it is believed that the driver can be apprehended.

BOY LEAVES HOME

Sheriff McGrath has received a request to assist in finding Stephen Grundy, 14-year-old son of A. S. Grundy, a high school trustee of San Bruno. The boy, a pupil of the Burlingame high school failed to attend school Tuesday and when in the evening the papers on a route which he carries were undelivered, a call was sent to the authorities.

The boy is described as 14 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches tall, was wearing corduroy pants, a faded blue shirt, and black shoes.

Exchange Club Elects Officers For Year 1931

Committee Completing Plans For Xmas Party and For Joint Meeting

Officers for the coming year were elected Tuesday evening by the Redwood City Exchange club. At this time Edmund Scott, assistant district attorney of this county, was elected as president of the service club, with Alfred Robertson as first vice-president. Albert Davies was elected second vice-president, and Albert Sparks as third vice-president. Scott will succeed Wilbur Doxsee, who has served as president of the club during the past year.

Lindsay Gray, who has served the club for the past three years as secretary, was again elected. Gray tried to decline the nomination for another term, but was overruled by the membership of the club. He also holds the position of secretary of the California State Exchange.

Francis Tinney, who has served for the past year as financial secretary, was re-elected to that office and was also made treasurer of the club. The new board of control elected Tuesday evening consists of Harvey Connor, Dr. Ralph Howe, and Leonard Casanova.

The Exchange club is making arrangements for its annual Christmas party for the children of the community, which is put on each year in conjunction with the Sequoia Theatre. The party this year is to take place on Monday afternoon, December 22, at the Sequoia Theatre. Plans for the occasion are being made by a committee consisting of Ed. Scott, chairman; Harold McGee, James Hearne, Albert Davies and Lindsay Gray.

This committee is planning to have Santa Claus present at the party to distribute gifts to the children. Transportation will also be aranged for any crippled children. As the committee wishes to accommodate all the children who care to attend, it is requested that only children attend, as seating capacity of the house is limited.

Another committee consisting of John Garland, chairman; Colin Stokes, Guy Kennedy, Jack Poole and Dr. Ralph Howe, is working on the club's toy stack, repairing, repainting and otherwise improving used toys for distribution to poor children on Christmas.

Next Tuesday the Redwood City club will take part in a district meeting to be held in Palo Alto, and to be participated in by all clubs from Santa Clara to South San Francisco. At this meeting Dr. W. B. Langston of the Redwood City club, will be installed at district governor, succeeding Clark Congdon of Palo Alto. The Redwood City club, on this occasion, will have charge of the music. The singing will be led by Frank Griffin.

Training Club Aids In Playground Work

The Leadership Training Club of Sequoia high school at its regular meeting or Tuesday held a business section in which the requirements for charter as set down by the student body commissioners were prepared for submission. The matter of enlarging the scope of the playground supervision work was discussed and plans are being made to take over another playground shortly after the first of the year. Roy A. Hohberger, the leader of this club, brought up the matter for a playground demonstration day some time early in the Spring. The club decided to lay plans for this.

On Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. the members took charge of the after-school playground supervision at the Lincoln grammar school, handling it in a very efficient manner. The children of this school look forward to the coming of this splendid group of civic-service-minded high school young people with much anticipation each Wednesday.

Christmas Seals Now Being Sent Through County

Little Stamps Aiding in War Against Tuberculosis of Children

Christmas Seals have been mailed into the homes of more than 20,000 people in San Mateo county with letters accompanying them explaining the war that is being waged here against tuberculosis, according to Mrs. Harry Dana, president of the San Mateo Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The money derived from this sale of seals is used for the support of the San Mateo Preventorium where little boys and girls of the county who have been exposed to tuberculosis and are undernourished and underprivileged are taken and restored to normal health.

The tuberculosis death rate per hundred thousand people in San Mateo county for the year 1929 was ninety. This compares most favorably with the State death rate for the same year which was one hundred and seven per hundred thousand people.

"But it is in this constant campaign of prevention waged against tuberculosis, that we must be supported," declared Mrs. Dana. "We ask you to keep as many of these seals as you can and to return to us for each seal you keep one penny," she continued. "This is your contribution of the great work of tuberculosis prevention, and we are counting and depending upon you."

"There are accommodations for 28 boys and girls in this new $50,000 preventorium dedicated this last Sunday at San Mateo. To provide for these 28 boys and girls, to properly feed them, school them and provide for them medical attention a great sum of money is required," Mrs. Dana said.

"There is one way that each one of you can help.—Buy Christmas Seals."

Kiwanis Hears Talk on Town

A meeting of the Redwood City Kiwanis club devoted to a program furnished by Redwood City people, was held Wednesday. Mayor Daniel R. Stafford acted as chairman of this meeting.

The principal speaker Wednesday was Charles G. Lambert, former president of the club, and winner of second place in the recent oratorical contest conducted by the California Real Estate Association. Lambert after describing the meeting where the representatives of the various district real estate clubs competed for first place with five minute talks concerning their districts, read the speach of the winner, the representative from Long Beach. Later he repeated his own speech concerning Redwood City and San Mateo county. The address was much enjoyed by the Kiwanians.

A pleasing feature of the Wednesday meeting was the singing by H. G. Phillips of the James Crowe Company, of "Take Me Back to Mandelay." He was accompanied at the piano by Roy Hohberger.

Roscoe Stephens, formerly a member of the Redwood City club, but now a resident of Duarte, California, had sent a box of avocados to the club, and there were raffled off to the members in baskets of four each, a process which raised almost $50 for the club's charity fund.

PALO ALTO TRAGEDY CAUSES TWO DEATHS

Churchill avenue crossing across the Southern Pacific tracks in Palo Alto was the scene of the third fatal accident within five years Wednesday when Mrs. Rose Christansen and her 7 year old daughter Betty Jane, were instantly killed by the fast train Lark.

The accident occurred when Mrs. Christiansen, wife of A. V. Christiansen, an accountant engaged in San Francisco, was taking the little girl to school. The mother waited for a south bound local train to pass, and then drove onto the tracks into the path of the onrushing Lark which was hidden from her view by the local which has just passed.

The fatal accident has resulted in a heated altracation between city officials of Palo Alto and officials of the railway company as to responsibility for delay in erecting safety gates at this crossing as ordered by the state railroad commission.

Philipino Exclusion

By D. E. O'KEEFE

The Japanese Exclusion Act passed by Congress some years ago through the efforts of Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, has proven beneficial to this state. No longer are the Little Brown Men in competition with the white laborers of California. Senator Shortridge prepared this bill and eloquently fought for its passage, and he did not let up until the act became a law. The senator will ever be held in the highest esteem by the people of California by the enactment of this law that freed the California white man from the Oriental competition.

In a few days Senator Shortridge will present a bill to Congress asking that the Filippino immigration be stopped. This class of immigrants coming, as it does in large numbers, is a menace to the state, and if it is not stopped the state is in grave danger of being overrun by this cheap labor coming in competition with our white boys and men, and women, too. The little Filippino is rapidly driving out our servant girls from their positions as house maids and are replacing our men in the fields. Senator Shortridge sees the menacing situation and is preparing to put a stop to it. His friends in California admire his stand and are besieging him with telegrams of encouragement and urging him to rush the bill that he has fathered, that California may again be freed from the scourge of cheap labor.

To pass this law it may be that we will have to give back the Philippine Islands to the natives. It would probably be better to do this, than to tolerate these vast hordes on the Pacific shores for they will eventually drive out the white. Let this country continue to be white, no matter what the consequences may be.

We commend Shortridge for his efforts, for his foresight and great grasp of the needs of his state and his tireless energy in promoting the interests of California and the entire country. The passage of the proposed bill will be a monument to California's junior senator.

Progress Keeps Imagination On the Jump

The ink is scarcely dry on some Jules Verne dream before the thing itself stands in solid stone and metal in the midst of us.

Take the dream of great Vertical Cities—giant metropolitan buildings housing whole populations. Recently a group of collegians studying mechanical engineering were taken on a tour of structural wonders in New York City. One point of call was Manhattan's largest hostelry—the 43-story New Yorker Hotel — where nearly 70,000 persons were accommodated every month. What they saw included: An electrical plant capable of lighting a city of 30,000 people, pumps that handle 1,000,000 gallons of water a day; a refrigeration plant that turns out the equivalent of 422 tons of ice every 24 hours; a laundry that does 65,000 pieces daily; a private post-office equipped to handle 5,000 letters between one midnight and the next; machines for putting creases in close to 300 miles of trousers a year; elevators which during ten months traveled a distance greater than from the earth to the moon; a plant for freshening 900,000 cubic feet of air a minute; and much more besides.

Almost before imagination can finish sketching in the details of some great modern dream, fact comes along and says: Here it is.

Driving Three Cars

One of the nation's foremost thinkers on automotive subjects of all kinds recently projected the thought that the average motorist now was driving three cars. The three he had in mind were the driver's own car, the one behind, and the one approaching from the side.

The thought, remarks the National Automobile Club, involved was that the individual had to make up his mind not only what he was going to do but what the other two drivers were going to do. There is a great deal in the idea when one comes to analyze it. It takes, for instance, about three times as good judgment to drive three cars as it does one. Improving judgment, therefore, is a task with which every driver may well busy himself. Soon he may be driving four cars or five.

The question for each man to settle is not what he would do if he had means, time, influence, and educational advantages, but what he will do with the things that he has. —hamilton Wright Mabie.

The Supreme Penalty

What if you were suddenly to be informed that you never again could have the privilege of driving an automobile—not through a sudden hysical or mental ailment, nor a financial reverse that made car ownership impossible, but through having forfeited the privilege by abusing it? asks a writer for the National Auto Club.

Can anyone think of a more drastic penalty? Solution of the personal transportation problem through car ownership is a commonplace. We are accustomed to walking out to the garage or going to our regular parking spaces—if any parking space could be called regular—getting into our cars and going where we please. The car is an essential part of a personal scheme of things.

Think of life suddenly stripped bare of personal motor car use; of a life made dependent upon street cars, taxis, trains, or private passenger cars driven by someone else! How much of its mobility, its flexibility would be lost!

Recent figures show that this plight overtook nearly 18,000 persons in ten states last year. It came in the form of revocation or suspension of operators' permits for drunken driving, recklessness, carelessness or some other abuse of the driving privilege.

"The supreme penalty," one authority calls it. Contemplating it, anyone who has come to depend upon a motor car can well agree.

Holiday Buying

Christmas is close at hand. There are many reasons for you to do your holiday shopping early. The oft-repeated appeal for showing consideration for over-worked clerks possesses all its old appeal. The common sense which tells us to do our shopping in a calm and sensible way before the last rush is on, is telling us that once more. All the old reasons hold good. There is at least one good, new reason this year. We have a host of unemployed who might possibly derive some profit from early shopping. We have depressed business which most certainly would be stimulated by judicious shopping early in December, instead of frenzied shopping at the close of the month.

We are preaching the commercialization of the Christmas spirit, but we are not sure but what it is an exemplification of the true Christian spirit for those who have their work, and are making as much or more, than last year, to do their bit toward keeping general conditions on as high a level as possible by spending as much as they did a year ago. Better business conditions mean more employment and better wages, and their prevalence is certain to make things better for many who are looking ahead for Christmas with some misgiving just now.

By the same token, it is not at all too early to begin to plan on Christmas relief. For a great many families in and near Redwood City this winter Christmas will be only a mockery, unless those of us who are more fortunate do our part with a will. Now is a good time to begin making plans for them.

Prove It Yourself

There are times in the speed of modern progress when question arises as to whether the values of advancement compensate for the losses necessarily incurred in obtaining them.

A great airship was built and heralded with superlatives, only to fall to earth in flames in its initial major flight; vast networks of transportation via land, sea and sky are opened and in the pioneering and developing of them a loss in men and money sometimes must be reckoned.

In the pause created by such setbacks, Man asks himself if victory under such conditions is worth the fight. The answer is obviously yes—due apparently to the very human element of adventure and pioneering.

Just as Man stops and questions and then usually gives a "Go Ahead" order to legitimate Business in all its forms, so Business stops and asks "Am I on the right track?"

Having made several stops in the past score of years and having mediated, Business has wrought many improvements. It's a far cry from the happily departed gas-lit medicine shows and their questionable "Good for Man or Beast" product to today's modern machinery of distribution and sales and the more vital element of good will and reputation.

The "Good for Man or Beast" tout has given way, in effect, to a "Prove It Yourself" challenge, and almost every commercial product today is sold on a test and approval basis.

I urge the strengthening of our deportation laws, so as to more fully rid ourselves of criminal aliens. Furthermore, thousands of persons have entered the country in violation of the immigration laws. The very method of their entry indicates their objectionable character, and our law-abiding foreign-born residents suffer in consequence. I recommend that the Congress provide methods of strengthening the Government to correct this abuse.—Herbert Hoover.

Higher wages create increased purchasing power, and shorter hours furnish leisure to enjoy more and better comforts and conveniences. This stimulates the desire to posses and creates the demand which makes mass production possible, and mass production results in lower cost of production, which in turn justifies higher wages and improved living conditions.—President Gadsden, Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

Sally Todd and Lois Montgomery leave home to seek their fortunes in New York.

Sally's brother, Bert, who is in love with Lois, follows them.

Lois meets a young man whom she knew when she was a wealthy woman's secretary.

He and a chap named FRISBY show her and Sally little attention, but Lois' thoughts are chiefly on the problems of existence.

Lois finally gets a job with a firm of interior decorators. Sally struggles for a foothold in the movies. They have a hard time making both ends meet.

Sally enters hospital training, finally convinced that the films ha. no future for her.

Lois is absorbed i nher own work.

During her employer's illness, she is sent to the palatial residence of James Walton to make a preliminary report.

Sally's liking for gay company causes a coolness between herself and Lois.

It also involves Lois in difficulties with Bert.

Lois is strongly attracted to Walton, who is much older than herself, and very rich and distinguished. —She finds him very cold and domineering.

—He demands she give up her friendship with Sally.

Sally, meanwhile, is in hot water at the hospital, because she is too fond of a good time.

Chapter 24

After an especially gay party she is assigned in an emergency to night duty.

She falls asleep while waiting for the special nurse to come, and the patient, in her delirium, rushes from the room and jumps from a window. By a miracle she escapes with minor injuries, but Sally's fate is sealed.

Unfit

She is dismissed in disgrace just before graduation.

Chapter 30.

Dr. Dale Randolph, out of sympathey, offers her a position in his office. He does not guess that Sally, while at the hospital, occasionally used drugs to bloster up her energies after gay parties.

Lois provides Sally with a little home in the country.

Sally falls in love with Dr. Randolph, who has no idea of her feeling for him.

Randolph meets Lois and likes her at once.

This is too much for Sally. She again resorts to the use of drugs, and, while in a befuddled condition, tells Randolph she loves him.

Randolph lays the situation before Lois and asks her help.

By MILDRED BARBOUR
Illustrated by HUGH HUTTON

Sally also comes to her, imploring her to persuade the doctor to give her another chance. Lois succeeds in getting him to promise to do so, and Sally resents the fact that Lois has been able to do for her what she couldn't do for herself.

Chapter 37.

Emotions

After Lois had left him to return to her home, Dr. Randolph walked quickly through the home-bound crowds to his club, where he ate dinner alone. He found that he had very little appetite, and he told himself that it was the late tea that had left him without his usual zest for food. During coffee in the lounge, one of the club bores decended upon him, so he finally retreated to the street and, at last ,to his apartment.

All this time he was trying to fix his thoughts on the work that lay ahead of him the next day, but they continually centered themselves upon Lois, as she had looked when she sat across the table from him at tea-time. She was different from the other woman he knew — very discerent. He tried to analyze the difference, but it eluded him, and he summed up the case by telling himself that he liked her very much indeed. Why bother about reasons?

He wondered what sort of a chap her husband was. Sally had bluntly said that James Walton was "an old crab." Once she had hinted that Lois had been more than a little dazzled by the prospect of the money and social position that marriage with him had offered. But, having seen Lois, Dale Randolph knew that the statement was without basis. She wouldn't marry for anything but love. He hoped that she was very happy.

Lois, as she glanced through a book that night after dinner, ransacked her memory for all the bits of information that Sally had ever let drop about Dr. Randolph. She rather envied Sally her opportunity of working with him, of seeing him every day. He was a very interesting person, she told herself, and very human, for all his success. With that, she glanced at her husband, who was reading over some memoranda that his secretary had brought him. He wore a rather grim expression. It was his custom, except when they had guests or went out for the evening, to spend several hours looking over business papers. At first Lois had protested, but she had soon learned the futility of that.

Now her mind went back to the lively conversation she had had with Dr. Randolph that afternoon — the chatter about, books, the theatre, modern art. She sighed and ruffled the pages of her book, glancing every now and then at her husband. But he was absorbed in his papers and paid no attention to her.

And Sally, although Lois had telephoned her that Dr Randolph had consented to give her another trial, was contemplating the future with discontent and uneasiness. She didn't want to do so, she had to face the fact that she could never hope to make Dale Randolph love her. Worse still, she had begun to fear that, after the scene she had made in the office, he might do no more than tolerate her, and then only because Lois had interceded for her. That was the bitterest thought of all, and Sally dwelt on it for a long time.

It frightened her to realize that she could feel resentment against Lois, who had always been the best and most unselfish of friends to her. But that didn't lessen her rebellion when she compared her lot to Lois's. In her present mood she felt that Lois had everything, and that she had nothing. She forgot that she had often told herself that under no consideration could she endure James Walton as a husband. Lois said very little about her personal affairs, but Sally knw — only she refused to admit it now — that her friend was far from happy.

Before she retired, Sally telephoned Lois. "Did Dr. Randolph say when I am to return to the office?" she asked. "I forgot to ask you when you called me this afternoon."

"He didn't say," Lois replied. "I suppose he expects you to call him about that."

"I will — tomorrow," said Sally. "Thanks a lot for all you've done," she added awkwardly.

As she prepared for bed, her better nature reproached her for her attitude toward Lois. "I can't help it," she said aloud. "It isn't fair. Lois had a home, plenty of money, and an easy time. Now she has the luck to make a hit with Dr. Randolph, and just when I've disgraced myself. I never have any luck."

That her unhappiness was largely her own fault never occurred to Sally. And, if it had, she would have found plenty of excuses for herself. Her mood demanded that she lay all her troubles to fate, bad luck — anything but her own undisciplined conduct.

The next morning she telephoned Dr. Randolph. When she heard his voice, she flushed furiously and then, in a sudden fit of shyness, almost hung up the receiver. "When — when shall I — when do you want me to come back?" she managed to say.

"Next week — on Monday, if you can," he answered pleasantly.

When Monday came, Sally felt that she couldn't go near the office. The whole thing was too painful. She called up Lois and told her so.

"Nonsense," said Lois. "You're going, if I have to come over and take you in myself."

That is exactly what happened, and that was why Lois and Dr. Randolph saw each other again.

"I wouldn't have had the courage to come, if Mrs. Walton hadn't come with me," said Sally. She eyed him so doubtfully that he smiled.

"You make me feel like an ogre," he said, and turned to Lois to cover his embarrassment at Sally's air of contrition.

Sally went to don her office attire, and, when she returned, Dale Randolph and Lois were deep in conversation. She watched them for a moment. They were unaware of her presence. There was a look in Dr. Randolph's eyes that Sally had never seen before.

"I knew it — I knew it," she whispered to herself. "He's in love with her. I wonder if she guesses it. She must. And does she care anything for him?"

Transpacific Hope Feasible Says Navigator

HAROLD GATTY

By GEORGE E. HELMER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 4 — Despite his narrow escape from death in a recent attempt to fly from Japan to Tacoma, Harold Gatty still believes such a transpacific flight is feasible.

"I firmly believe that a flight from Japan to the Pacific coast is possible, and if another such flight ca nbe financed I would be glad of the chance to have another try at it," Gatty said upon his recent arrival here.

Gatty's return to the United States was delayed by illness which kept him confined to his bed, as an aftermath of his perilous flight. Harold Bromley, pilot of the plane which Gatty navigated, preceded him back to the States by several weeks.

The strain of that last attempt to dare the headwinds and fogs that shrouded the north Pacific showed itself still in the lines of Gatty's forehead, and the sunken cheeks revealed some of the terror and duress of the hours spent circling above the fog, waiting for a rift so a landing could be made, while the poisonous fumes from a broken exhaust pipe made the air in the tiny cabin almost unbreathable.

The saga of Bromley's and Gatty's dramatic hop, which brought them to within 100 miles of the Kamchatka peninsula in Siberia before engine trouble forced their return, beggars belief.

For several hours after their takeoff on Sept. 14, from the sandy beach at Samushiro, in Aomori prefecture, the two flyers in their bright orange Emsco monoplane maintained communication by radio with various Japanese stations.

Suddenly, at 5:10 p. m., their radio was silenced, and for hours it was feared they had plunged into the icy waters of the Pacific. Anxiety was increased, although fears that the intrepid pilots already were down were allayed when the Dollar liner President Madison, the same ship on which Gatty arrived here, reported receiving a message from Bromley and Gatty, asking immediate aid. The ship's radio lost contact before it could learn the plane's position.

Five thousand feet above the stormy Pacific, Bromley wrestled with the controls of the plane, unwieldy with its load of 1000 gallons of gasoline, while Gatty checked his charts and instruments, and gazed futilely at the mist-shrouded, cloudy skies, which made "blind flying" by instrument only a necessity.

Lost, and with a leaking exhaust pipe throwing carbon monoxide fumes into the cabin, both men realized that to push further into the murky night would be suicide.

Bromley banked the plane about, and Gatty, his throat raw and inflamed from the exhaust fumes, pored over his charts and prayed fervently that his calculations would bring them back to Japan and safety.

Hour after hour they sped through the fog, bucking headwinds, with Bromley fighting the controls constantly. More than once they thought they were doomed, as an errant current seized the ship and hurled it downward through the night.

At last they roaded out of the gloom and landed gracefully on the sand beach at Cape Shiriya, close to the field from which they had taken off hours before.

Both men were utterly exhausted from the strain of the flight, as well as seriously ill from inhaling poisonous gases. Yet even then they both expressed confidence that the flight could be made.

Gatty is now on his way to his home in Los Angeles, but he will not remain there long. Soon he again will be seeking uncharted air lanes, for such is the way of the trailblazer.

TWINS HAVE MISFORTUNE

BERLIN, (UP)—Misfortune came to twin sisters on the same day. One of them was knocked down by a motor-bicycle, while almost at the same time, the other, who had remained at home set her clothes on fire and was severely burned.

Taxpayers Come Out Looking Sad, So Sad

A gruesome joke was perpetrated on the front steps of the courthouse yesterday afternoon. An eastern man was enjoying the sunshine while talking to a local friend. He observed the large crowds entering the building, all headed for trance. The easterner observed the rooms to the left of the enlong faces of the men and women as they came out and at once enquired of his friend if the room they had entered was not a morgue. The friend laughed out loud as he told the man from beyond the Rockies that the place was the tax collector's office and this was the last day to pay taxes. The taxpayer on learning the high rate of taxation caused his jaw to drop, hence the lugubrious appearance of those who settled with the county as they were seen on leaving the courthouse. The easterner thought the joke was on him but was forcibly reminded that, he, too, would have a similar countenance when he walked up the courthouse steps of his home town, in the frozen east, to settle for his taxes.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2 (UP) — Numa, the famous motion picture lion, is nothing but a stuffed skin and a memory now and Pluto, his grandson, has been installed as king of Gay's Lion Farm.

Numa's passing, attributed to cancer of the head, was noted carefully by dozens of the screen's best known players and it is a certainty that Pluto's ascension means considerable more work for film doubles.

For Numa was noted for his gentle manners and, in later years, his rubber teeth, while Pluto occasionally gets lionish and his teeth are long and sharp.

Numa was directly responsible for the founding of Gray's lion farm and he reputedly earned in excess of $75,000 for it.

Came From Circus

He originally came west with his master in a circus. He was hired to work in a picture and his success was so great that he remained to work in films while his master went on to build the lion farm.

Numa worked first in Mack Sennett comedies. He chased such notables as Gloria Swanson, Fatty Arbuckle and Marie Prevost in those days.

Subsequently he worked in all pictures where a lion was required. One of his last appearances was in "The Circus" with Chaplin.

Although Numa's look was ferocious he was quite gentle and even such stars as Chaplain did not hesitate to enter his cage and perform with him before the camera.

Histrionic Ability

Pluto's histrionic abilities never have been criticized but he has lost considerable screen work because his disposition had a slightly vicious twinge.

Now, with Numa gone, Pluto will get all the camera calls and that outlook isn't too encouraging to film players who contemplate pictures needing a lion.

Numa was born 16 years ago in Abyssinia, not far from the city where Ras Tafari Makonnen recently became Emperor Haile Selassie I.

Twenty five children survive him at the lion farm, including the new king, Pluto.

Numa's skin has been stuffed and is on view at the farm.

THEY DIDN'T MIND WAITING

Forty years ago Miss Essie Seward and Joseph Davis, pictured above, plighted their troth. They were married just the other day at Oroville, Cal., the marriage having been postponed through the years on account of Miss Seward's devotion to her invalid parents.

SENTENCED BY MORSE CODE

DETROIT, Dec. 2 (UP) — Two old-timers of an ancient and honorable calling fraternized in recorder's court today—one from the Judge's bench and the other from the prisoner's dock.

Christopher Benny, 50, was arraigned before Judge Christopher Stein on a charge of intoxication.

"Your occupation?" asked the Judge.

"I've done telegraphin' for the last 20 years" said Benny.

Judge Stein was skeptical—the more so because somewhere back in his varied career he too had "done telegraphin'"

"Very well", he said. "If you're a telegrapher, take this pencil and tell me what sentence I ought to give you."

Benny took the pencil and tapped it on the table in a mysterious clatter of little sounds.

Judge Stein grinned, took up his gravel, and tapped out a response.

The court stenographer was on the verge of a breakdown when Judge Stein translated the Morse code conversation as follows:

Benny: "Suspended sentence, your honor."

Judge: "Okay."

PACIFIC COAST LEADS IN PHONE TURNOVER

More telephones have been installed and more disconnected in the first nine months of 1930 on the Pacific Coast than in any similar period of any previous year in history.

The total turnover in 1930 for the first nine months was 884,221, as against 792,140 in 1929, 689,172 in 1928; 636,513 in 1927; and 590,896 in 1926. Based on the figures for these three quarters, the turnover in the entire year 1930 will approach 1,200,000 as compared with an actual total of 1,073,347 in 1929.

Commenting on this fact, L. C. Brown, local manager for The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, points out that this record turnover reveals a greater shifting of population in the present year than in any previous time. The company has therefore been compelled to expend a greater amount of money and labor to make its net gain in new telephones this year than in any other year. Up to September 30 it connected and dismounted, and moved nearly 900,000 telephones, or nearly 30 for every one gained.

County Teachers To Meet Dec. 15

Three Speakers Scheduled for Addresses to Teachers At Institute

The teachers' inititute of this county will be held at the Burlingame high school on Monday morning, December 15, according to an announcement made this week by Miss Pansy Jewett Abbott, county superintendent of schools. The program of the institute this year contains three outstanding speakers; Roy W. Cloud, who will talk on the California Teachers Association ,of which organization he is state secretary; Frederick P. Woollner, Ph. D., associate professor of education, University of California, southern branch; and Harr Wagner, San Francisco publisher, who will speak on Joaquin Miller.

The meeting of the county teachers will be presided over by county Superintendent of Schools Miss Abbott. Following this meeting a meeting of the San Mateo County Teachers' Association will be held, at which delegates will be elected to represent the county at the bay section meeting of the California Teachers' Association.

WOMAN WINS DIVORCE

Mrs. Delia Keary, a resident of Newbridge Park, was this week granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Patrick Keary. Mrs. Keary was granted the divorce on cruelty and neglect. She was granted the custody of minor children, and Keary was ordered to pay $75 a month for their support.

UNEMPLOYMENT INCREASES

BERLIN, Dec. 2 (UP)—Unemployment in Germany is still rising. During October over a quarter of a million people were added to the unemployed. The total now is 3,250,000. Some 2,000,000 are in receipt of contributory unemployment benefit, while the rest are "off the register."

UMPIRES SURVIVE, DESPITE THREATS

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Dec 2 (UP)—No umpire has ever met death on a baseball diamond, despite the fact that the expression, "Kill the umpire" has become a by-word, George Moriarity, American League umpire, told members of the Michigan City Lions Club.

"And furthermore only two umpires have sustained serious injuries," he said. The fact that paper cups have been substituted for pop bottles was one of the great factors in preserving the health of umpires, he believes.

Officating at a game requires patience and tolerance which the ordinary person sometimes fails to appreciate, Moriarity said, and he has found only one come-back which never fails to work on the disgruntled player who protests a decision. The words are: "I'm sorry, old fellow, but that's the best I can do this time."

Poles down - lines out -
But the calls still went through

A SUDDEN FLOOD carried out the telephone lines between two western cities. It would be hours before the poles could be reset. But the repair crews were equal to the crisis.

While construction went ahead at top speed, a squad of telephone men stood waist-deep in the surging streambed, holding a temporary line on their shoulders. Countless messages of reassurance and safety passed over the temporary line.

All in the day's work . . . the message must go through.

"Any Distance —Any Stake"

Some stable owner who has a fast horse can win—or lose—a whole lot of money if he takes his mount to Sidney, Australia.

D. S. Davis, noted Sydney sportsman is owner of Pharlap, hailed as the wonder horse of the world. Davis recently cabled to the Daily Express of London the most direct challenge ever issued to the English racing world. His challenge read:

"Will race any horse you send over within six months, any distance, any amount."

British horserace enthusiasts at once recognized this challenge as intended of behalf of Pharlap, a horse which "looks like a kangaroo dog" and which won ten of his eleven runnings in 1930.

Name Means Lightning

Pharlap, whose name is a Cingalese word meaning lightning has already done more than make history in Australia, according to the Daily Express, which reports that this four-year-old gelding already has won $230,000. The Express continues:

"He has been shot at by hooligans on the eve of the Melbourne Cup, Australia's greatest turf event, and in return not only celebrated the attack on his life by taking the Cup with consummate ease, but by winning three other races during the meeting.

"His presence on any racecourse in Australia now causes opposing owners to withdraw their entries, and, whether on the tote or with a bookmaker, he has become unbackable.

"That is a summary of his official prowess, made more imposing by the fact that there is only one important race, the Caulfield Cup, which he has not won as yet.

"It can be supplemented, however, by the fact that his owner and Mr. H. R. Telford, his trainer, have no qualms in racing him in sprint or in long distance races. They belive he is virtually unbeatable anywhere and anyhow, and though stamina is said to be Pharlap's strong point, they have no hesitation in meeting all comers at their chosen best distances.

Purchase Price Was Only $800

"Pharlap's unofficial history is even more enthrilling. His present trainer was intrigued by the horse's breeding at a yearling sale.

He begged Mr. Davis to buy him, and was met with the answer that his patron had already too many horses.

"Later in the day he met Mr. Davis again at Moorfield races, and finally persuaded him to bid for the horse."

Pharlap was bought for slightly more than $800. He was shown to his new owner who exclaimed: "He looks like a kangaroo dog. Now I've got him, I don't know what to do with him. You take him and lease him for me."

The owner's trainer jumped at the offer and leased the horse for three years. This lease expires next February. The lease allows the trainer to take two-thirds of the money won.

Pharlap has run altogether in thirty-six races. As a two-year-old he won one out his five events.

His trainer was not despondent. "Pharlap will come on with age," he said.

His next year's racing brought him thirteen wins, a second, and two thirds out of twenty races.

This year he has run eleven times, and won on ten occasions.

High School Notes

GEORGE AABEL

Opening their season with a pair of the toughest teams they will come up against this year, the Sequoia 130's and Varsity will meet the Commerce heavyweights tomorrow in the Sequoia gym. The Sequoia teams have all veterans, although not all of them have played first string. Graham will captain the 130's and Bob Alber will lead the unlimited.

Although Sequoia's varsity team team now has many star players, it's chances for a championship will be weakened greatly after the first league game on account of the loss of Bob Alber, Bob Archibald, Pete Lawler, and "Chuck" Delacy.

There has been a large turnout this year for heavyweight basketball; as a result Sequoia should have two good teams.

Members of Redwood service clubs and parents of the players will be guests of the school at the game tomorrow in return for the many things they have done for the institution.

The lineups:

130's

Sequoia	Commerce
Peri forward	Shimano (C)
Lewis forward	Hingsberger
Graham (C) center	Williams
Morgan guard	Stillman
Wohlken guard	Soubiras

Varsity

Sequoia	Commerce
Leroy forward	Meade (C)
McCarthy forward	Long
Alber (C) center	Good
Bugge guard	Lee
DeLacy guard	Zizaldo

GEORGE SCHROEDER

Three Cherokees from Sequoia were among the members of the all-star Peninsula Athletic League team for the year 1930. "Chuck" Delacy, Indian halfback, was unaminously elected. His interference running, his line bucks, and punts provided reasons for his being honored.

Jim Rhoda, Cherokee guard, was chosen because of his exceptionally good defense work, which gave him a rating above Hunt of Burlingame and Carlson of Palo Alto. Don Pors of Palo Alto was chosen as the best guard for the team.

Ed Cullen took a place in the second-string lineup as a halfback. His brilliant bullet passes and clever running are said to have won him his position on the all-star team.

Leo LeRoy, end, Louis Eaton, center, Goldwaithe, tackle, and Al Cleland quarterback, all of Sequoia, received honorable mention.

Following is the first string lineup for the all-star team:

Anderson	End	Palo Alto
Hankins	End	Burlingame
Epting	Tackle	Burlingame
Bastile	Tackle	San Jose
Pors	Guard	Palo Alto
Rhoda	Guard	Sequoia
Devine	Center	Burlingame
R. Bernardo	Quarter	San Jose
DeLacy	Half	Sequoia
B. Matson	Half	San Mateo
Back	Full	Palo Alto

Opening their practice season, the Sequoia high water polo team yesterday bowed to the Stanford freshmen team 9 to 3. The Chrokees started off fast, but were over taken by the powerful frosh outfit.

Walt Worrell broke the ice early in the game with the first score from a short way out. Stewart Goldthwaite scored in the third and fourth quarters. His last goal was a pretty tap shot from under the goal.

Outstanding players for the Stanford frosh were: Ted Wiget, who is remembered at Sequoia because of his first place in the North Coast Section last year; Carl Clyne, a Cherokee alumnus who captained the varsity two years ago; Fred Kalenborn, goal guard of the Frosh, who was a member of the Sequoia water polo squad last year.

In spite of the score the Cherokees and the fact that they were outweighed by the Frosh, the Cherokees put up a stiff battle against this college team; with improvement the local squad should go a long way in the Peninsula Athletic League.

This tilt opened a series of practice meets which are on the locals schedule before they crash into the league.

Reptile Expert Hunting Serum For Deadly Bite

Boat in Boston Harbor; To Be Used in Laboratory For Experiments

BOSTON, Dec. 2 (UP)—William F. Clapp, authority on marine and reptile life who traced the San Francisco dock collapses of about a decade ago to a wood-boring worm known as the teredo, has a combined home and laboratory aboard the schooner Hamilton in Boston harbor.

The admonition "Poisonous snakes—Keep off," painted prominently on the craft's cabin, insures Clapp privacy.

Rattlesnakes, gila monsters, indigos, and coachwhips are among his reptiles.

Clapp is trying to develop a serum to counteract the gila monster's bite. He also is seeking the secret of how the indigo can distinguish between a harmless and deadly snake.

When a non-poisonous coachwhip is thrown into the voracious indigo's cage, the latter catches it in the air and devours it. But when a rattler of identical color is dropped in the indigo remains motionless until the newcomer has settled down Then, with meticulous cunning, the indigo approaches the rattler, killing it with a lightning snap.

How to make synthetic sea water having all the properties of natural salt water is another object of Clapp's studies.

All the chemical ingredients known to exist in sea water have been put together, but sea fish have not lived in the synthetic product.

Martin Jansoone, Richmond, Cal., welding expert, and the unique, 32-foot craft he is building. The boat is constructed entirely of steel plates and girders and has been put together entirely by electric welding. Pacific coast shipping interests are awaiting the launching of the new craft, which, Jansoone declares, will withstand the roughest seas better than boats made of wooden planks and timbers.

MENLO PARK

In the grammar school auditorium on December 11 at 8:30 o'clock St. Joseph Players of Menlo Park will give a play, a three-act comedy, entitled "Wotta Night."

The plot of the play centers about the midnight reading of a 25-year-old will. The scene takes place at an old isolated mansion formerly owned by the eccentric old testator. During the course of events a brutal murder takes place, a search for a maniac is made in the house, and in general, the whole house is upset by the occurance of many mystifying events.

Special scenery has been rented from a leading theatrical company of San Francisco, as well as additions to the lighting system, which items, are essential to the presentation of a good mystery production.

The cast as chosen by D. Edwin Sullivan, director of the players, includes: Mary Carleton, Mary Alice Sullivan, Francis McAtee, Ellen Weston, Joseph Sullivan, Thomas Glynn, Jack Tuttle, William Wilson, and James O'Keefe, Jr. The cast has been working hard at rehearsals to present successfully a very difficult and interesting drama. The cast hopes that the people of Menlo Park will respond with the same spirit they have shown in the past.

The production is to be given one night only, and that on Thursday, December 11, at the Grammar School auditorium on the highway. As the seating capacity is only 500, it is requested that tickets be purchased early, thus assuring the patrons the best seats. Tickets are 50 cents and can be procured from any of the St. Joseph Alumni members.

For the homeless children of California, the Native Sons and Native Daughters of Menlo Park will give a card party in the grammar school auditorium this evening. For the worthy cause numerous valuable prizes have been generously donated by kind people who are in sympathy with the great work of caring for the fatherless and motherless. From all indications the auditorium will be crowded with enthusiastic fans from all parts of the peninsula.

Miss Cecelia Marentette, who up until a year ago was a lay sister at Corpus Christi Monastery, and who at that time entered the cloister, will receive her white veil at an impressive ceremony at vespers in the public chapel of the institution Sunday afternoon next at 3 o'clock. The young lady will make her solemn profession of Sister Mary of the Blessed Sacrament. The public is invited to attend this ceremony. Sister Mary before entering a religious life, was a teacher in her home town in Canada. She is a talented and devout young woman who elects to spend her life in prayer and meditation behind gray walls of the cloister, where worldly matters are eschewed.

The clock came back to its accustomed place in the office of the Southern Pacific Company's station after a long absence for repairs this week. It was missed by the patrons of the office for nearly every passenger takes his time from this clock and sets his watch by it. In a spirit of economy the company did not replace it, when the old time piece was gone.

Miss Lillian Thompson, charming daughter of Doctor and Mrs. Thompson of Sacramento, spent a portion of her Thanksgiving vacation with Miss Carmel O'Keefe. Both are seniors at the Sacred Heart Academy and left on Monday to resume their studies.

The quail season opened on Monday. But few of the local hunters secured the limit of fifteen in the nearby hills. Councilman Crane shot a number of birds along the San Francisquito creek. Mr. Crane is a veteran hunter who hunted the wary quail in this section in the long ago. The large covey of quail in town is being watched by the local police. The discharge of firearms within the city limits is punishable, both by fine and imprisonment. The small boy should take warning.

Miss Ollie Podany, student at the University of Minnesota and sister of Mrs. J. Horn, leaves next week for her home in Minneapolis for the Christmas holidays. Miss Podany is a very charming and pretty girl who is just in love with California and may make her future home here.

Leon Douglass and his family are preparing to hold their usual Christmas tree for the youngsters of this city. This is a big event in the lives of the little ones and they are loking forward to it with happy anticipations. Santa Claus promises to be very interesting this year.

Former Mayor Ellis arrived home after an absence of several weeks. Monday much improved in health. He spent the time with his sister at Pittsburg, Contra Costa county.

Frank R. Mills, 66, the pioneer florist of Palo Alto, who died in that city on Tuesday, was widely known in Menlo Park. When Timothy Hopkins started the Sherwood Hall Nurseries here in the nineties, Mills, then a young man just out from England, took charge of the green house and remained with the nurseries until they went out of business years later. Mills then started a nursery business at Palo Alto in which he was highly successful. He leaves a snug estate.

The city council met last evening to receive and order published a notice of intention for street improvement in Stanford Park. The council also heard F.J. Fernivall, who was cited to appear and show cause, if any he may have, why his building permit should not be revoked. It was alleged by the building inspector that he was violating the terms of the building laws of the city.

Menlo Junior College gridders defeated on Thanksgiving Day the Weber College eleven by a score of 19 to 0. The home team has a clean score, not having been defeated this season.

Duke, the hirsuite eliminator, anticipating a change in the Coxin block, has moved to the Murray building where he has opened a shaving emporium. The building he formerly occupied is to be wrecked shortly by the owner, The Associated Oil Company.

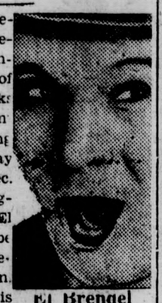
"Just Imagine" "Tom Sawyer" at Sequoia Theatre



El Brendel

The management of the Sequoia Theatre announces one of the biggest weeks of entertainment since the opening date. On Sunday and Monday, Dec. 6 - 7 "Just Imagine," starring El Brendel will be shown on the Sequoia screen. "Just Imagine" is a comedy success 50 years ahead of its time and from all preview reports promises to be the last word in comedy.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, America's leading child actor, Jackie Coogan, and America's leading child actress, Mitzi Green, are seen together for the first time on the screen in "Tom Sawyer," the immortal Mark Twain classic. Those who want to have a great time of it, should not fail to see "Tom Sawyer."

Mitzy Green

Here is really a sincere attempt to transfer a classic of boynood to the screen. The qualities that make it the delightful experience that it is, are difficult to analyze, but there is no doubt that it has caught the spirit of the Mark Twain original.

All will be glad to behold Jackie Coogan on the screen again, in his impersonation of the title character. Jackie is himself more than he is Tom Sawyer. He is an extremely good little actor. "Tom Sawyer" is a clean, wholesome picture for the entire family.

WOODSIDE

By a resolution of the Board of Supervisors entered on Monday, December 1st the Woodside Fire District had its boundaries enlarged by the annexation of Woodside Heights and certain other continguous territory. This appeared to be a natural development as the Fire Department has been responding to fire calls from this territory since the organization of the Woodside Fire District.

Fred Hustis, popular employee of Neuman Bros. left here two weeks ago for Kansas City, the purpose of the trip unannounced. The secret is out for he returned on Wednesday with his bride and the young couple were welcomed with many choice gifts by Neuman Bros, and by the fellow employees of Mr. Hustis.

Charles T. Bradley and his son Rupert are spending several weeks touring in Southern California. On their return Rupert will plan for continuing his student days by matriculating at San Mateo Junior College.

Mrs. Alma Spreckels Rosecrans returned this week to San Francisco where she will spend the winter. She has remained thus long to oversee the completion of her farm buildings that will house her prize-winning show horses. Here is now one of the most completely equipped livestock farms in the country. She has been occupying the McCann house but in the spring will build a new home on the hills west of the farm.

The Parent-Teacher Association held its regular monthly meeting at the school auditorium on Thursday and completed arrangements for the bazaar to be held on Friday evening. Here will be an opportunity to spend a pleasant evening and secure a selection of presents against the approaching Christmas season. A great variety of things will be offered for sale and the latter part of the evening will be devoted to playing cards.

The Christmas program by the children of the Woodside school will be given on the evening of December 12th. Mrs. Helen Huebner, musical director, is in charge of the program.
